

Recently I joined a beta testing program which tests a new form of IMing people. It's called IMstar*. You get to make and design avatars, what look like internet people. You can make them look however you want and there are thousands of different options to dress them up as. You can also play quizzes for more points, and well as play experiences, which are like scavenger hunts. Where you are given a hint and you have to find the item that matches it, rewarding you with a cool new item and more points to buy things.

One thing that IMstar* does it allows you to chat with other members and representatives about what is good, whats bad, and suggestions. They've had prom chats, and movie chats. But about a month ago was one that I was really excited about. It gave us all a chance to talk to Marianela, a VJ from Daily Download on Fuse. We had about a half hour to talk to her and it was soo much fun. She is so much like a normal girl I forgot I was talking to a celebrity, yet alone one of my idols. Here is the chat with her, and I hope you can see how real she is, like most celebs are.
